STREET CORN IN THE AIRFRYER

Ingredient List:

- Corn on the Cob – Remove husk, silk and rinse.
- Olive oil •Sour Cream •Chili Powder
- Cilantro •Garlic •Lime Juice
- Mayonnaise – we do not recommend Miracle Whip for this recipe.
- Cotija Cheese – Can't find cotija? Use crumbled queso fresco or even grated Parmesan.

HOW TO PREPARE THE STREET CORN

Cook – Brush your corn evenly with oil and cook for 8-10 minutes at 400 degrees F. Flip the corn halfway through cooking. You could cook longer if you like your corn a bit more toasty.

Coat – Grab a bowl and stir together sour cream, mayo, cilantro, garlic, lime juice, and salt. When the corn is done cooking, immediately remove to a plate and brush on this mixture. Be as generous as you like.

Serve – When serving, sprinkle the corn with cotija cheese and chili powder. The cotija is a bit salty and chili powder adds just the right hit of spice. Use cayenne if you like things extra spicy. Enjoy!

What you wish
upon others,
you wish
upon yourself

If you ever feel like you're the only one who doesn't have it figured out, listen close: Life is not tidy. Growth is not linear. We are all wanderers. We are all still learning.

I will scream them loud tonight
Can you hear my

Seeing Yourself Reflected in Others

People you feel drawn to reflect your inner self, and you act as a mirror for them, too.

When we look at other people, we see many of their qualities in innumerable and seemingly random combinations. However, the qualities that we see in the people around us are directly related to the traits that exist in us.

“Like attracts like” is one of the spiritual laws of the universe. We attract individuals into our lives that mirror who we are. Those you feel drawn to reflect your inner self back at you, and you act as a mirror for them. Simply put, when you look at others, you will likely see what exists in you. When you see beauty, divinity, sweetness, or light in the soul of another, you are seeing the goodness that resides in your soul. When you see traits in others that evoke feelings of anger, annoyance, or hatred, you may be seeing reflected back at you those parts of yourself that you have disowned or do not like.

Because we are all mirrors for each other, looking at the people in your life can tell you a lot about yourself. Who you are can be laid bare to you through what you see in others. It is easy to see the traits you do not like in others. It is much more difficult to realize that you possess those same traits. Often, the habits, attitudes, and behaviors of others are closely linked to our unconscious and unresolved issues.

When you come into contact with someone you admire, search your soul for similarly admirable traits. Likewise, when you meet someone exhibiting traits that you dislike, accept that you are looking at your reflection. Looking at yourself through your perception of others can be a humbling and eye-opening experience. You can also cultivate in you the traits and behaviors that you do like. Be loving and respectful to all people, and you will attract individuals that will love and respect you back. Nurture compassion and empathy and let the goodness you see in others be your mirror.

CAN YOU HELP ALVINA'S FAMILY?

Alvina Irene MacGregor
August 16, 1945 - April 14, 2022

Alvina was on vacation in Los Cabos, Mexico. She was having a fantastic day with her cousin Sharon on a boat in the Sea of Cortez. She had her goggles, snorkel and life jacket on, walked to the back of the boat and jumped in to the sea with a smile on her face.

When she hit the water, she suffered a heart attack. It took several minutes to get her back into the boat. The Lord saw all the work she has done in her life and decided that it was time to call her home. Everyone is shocked by her sudden passing.

The family must raise funds for the incoming medical bills from the water ambulance, land ambulance, and the hospital ER. They have had to move to Winnipeg to assist their father, Alvina's widow. Her family aches with the loss and the void she has left.

A fund to help the family with the financial stresses they are now facing can be found here: <https://tinyurl.com/mvypskwa>
