BAMBOOZABLE

What's a bamboozable you ask? A bamboozable is a saying/phrase that is made up of a display of words, in an interesting way. The object is to try to figure out the well-known saying, person, place, or thing that each bamboozable is meant to represent.

Chunky Mustard Pickles Recipe

7 pint (500 mL) jars. Here's a delicious answer to a bumper crop of garden cucumbers.

Served in a cut-glass dish, these pickles add color and flavor to any meal.

14 cups peeled & seeded cucumbers or seeded, unpeeled zucchini 3.5 L

6 cups chopped onions 1.5 L

1/4 cup pickling salt 50 mL

3 cups sugar 750 mL

1/2 cup all purpose flour 125 mL

1/4 cup dry mustard 50 mL

1 tbsp ground ginger 15 mL

1 tsp ground turmeric 5 mL

1/2 cup water 125 mL

2 cups white vinegar 500 mL

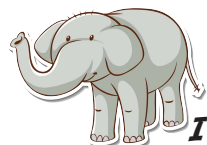

1 sweet red pepper, finely chopped

Cut cucumbers into 1/2 inch (1 cm) cubes. In a large glass or stainless steel container, combine cucumbers and onions; sprinkle with salt. Let stand 1 hour and drain. Fill boiling water canner with water. Place 7 clean pint (500 mL) mason jars in canner over high heat. In a large stainless steel or enamel saucepan, stir together dry ingredients.

Gradually blend in water; add vinegar and red pepper; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened, about 5 minutes. Add drained cucumber mixture; return to a boil. Place Snap Lids in boiling water; boil 5 minutes to soften sealing compound. Ladle pickle mixture into a hot jar to within 1/2 inch (1 cm) of top rim (head space). Remove air bubbles by sliding rubber spatula between glass and food; readjust head space to 1/2 inch (1 cm). Wipe jar rim removing any stickiness. Center Snap Lid on jar; apply screw band just until fingertip tight. Place jar in canner. Repeat with remaining pickles. Cover canner; return water to a boil; process 10 minutes at altitudes up to 1,000 ft (305 m). Remove jars. Cool 24 hours. Check jar seals (Sealed lids curve downward.)

Remove screw bands; store separately. Wipe jars, label & store in a cool, dark place.

Choosing what Matters - A Cure for the Procrastinator

Living more fully is about experiencing all the wonderful richness life has to offer.

Procrastination is an almost universal human habit and one that infiltrates nearly every aspect of our lives. Modern existence is so complex, and much of what we long to do is left to wait by the side. We know what is important but tend to let the weight of worldly pressures lead us astray. To get back on track, however, we need only take a moment to consider where our thoughts will be as we take our last breath on this earth. More likely than not, at that instant, disagreements, bills, petty annoyances, and other frustrating elements of our lives will no longer seem as significant as they once did. Thoughts of loved ones and the positive impact we had on the world would no doubt occupy our remaining thoughts. Whatever we imagine ourselves musing upon during our last breath will almost always be representative of what truly matters to us. This simple exercise introduces us to a new way of thinking.

While our attention is drawn momentarily to the end of life, our contemplations serve to point out that we are masters of our own perspective and, consequently, our own existence. There is nothing preventing us from shifting our focus right now as we imagine we will in our final moments. We can choose to spend more of our time and energy on what gives our lives meaning. We can spend more time with loved ones and do more of what we enjoy. Doing so may not always prove easy, and there will be times when circumstances interfere with our resolution, yet we do not have to regard this as an indication that our priorities are not in alignment with who we really are.

Sometimes the only way we can see the beauty of life is to remind ourselves that it is finite. Gandhi said, "Live as if you were to die tomorrow." His words are a potent reminder that living life more fully is not about pushing ourselves harder or shouldering more burdens, but about experiencing all the wonderful richness life has to offer.

FOUR LEGGED FACTS

Dogs can't sweat through their skin, so they pant to circulate air through their bodies to cool down.

Dog's sense of hearing is 4x better than humans.

Cats prefer their food at room temperature – not too hot, not too cold.

Cats meow to communicate with humans. They will usually hiss, purr and spit at other cats.

Dogs can participate in doggie blood drives: they're able to donate blood to fellow pooches.

Cats can pick up on your tone of voice, so sweet-talking to your cat has more of an impact than you think.
