Cook Time: 2 hours

Servings: 4-6

- ¼ cup butter
- 2 lb(s) buffalo stew meat, cubed
- 1 splash red wine
- 2 onions, chunky slices
- 2 clove garlic, diced
- 4 cups beef broth
- 1 Tbsp Worcestershire sauce

- 2 Tbsp steak spice
- Few sprigs fresh thyme and rosemary
- 1 bay leaf
- 4 medium carrots, peeled and sliced
- 4 medium potatoes, peeled and diced chunky
- 4 stalks celery, diced
- 2 cup corn
- 2 cup peas
- Salt and pepper to taste

DIRECTIONS

- Using a large pan, heat oil and butter.
- Add the buffalo meat and brown the meat on all sides.
- Add red wine, onions and garlic and cook until translucent.
- Add beef broth, Worcestershire sauce, steak spice, thyme, rosemary, bay leaf and bring to a boil.
- Add carrots, potatoes, celery, corn and peas.

Trees Shedding Their Bark

Like a tree, our growth depends upon our ability to soften, loosen, and shed defenses we no longer need.

Trees grow up through their branches and down through their roots into the earth. They also grow wider with each passing year. As they do, they shed the bark that served to protect them but now is no longer big enough to contain them. In the same way, we create boundaries and develop defenses to protect ourselves and then, at a certain point, we outgrow them. If we don't allow ourselves to shed our protective layer, we can't expand to our full potential.

Trees need their protective bark to enable the delicate process of growth and renewal to unfold without threat. Likewise, we need our boundaries and defenses so that the more vulnerable parts of ourselves can safely heal and unfold. But our growth also depends upon our ability to soften, loosen, and shed boundaries and defenses we no longer need.

It is often the case in life that structures we put in place to help us grow eventually become constricting.

Unlike a tree, we must consciously decide when it's time to shed our bark and expand our boundaries, so we can move into our next ring of growth. Many spiritual teachers have suggested that our egos don't disappear so much as they become large enough to hold more than just our small sense of self -- the boundary of self widens to contain people and beings other than just "me." Each time we shed a layer of defensiveness or ease up on a boundary that we no longer need, we metaphorically become bigger people. With this in mind, it is important that we take time to question our boundaries and defenses. While it is essential to set and honor the protective barriers we have put in place, it is equally important that we soften and release them when the time comes. In doing so, we create the space for our next phase of growth.

Gratitude is the beginning of wisdom.

Stated differently, true wisdom cannot be obtained unless it is built on a foundation of true humility and gratitude.

– Gordon B. Hinckley
